Course Description

The NCFE CACHE Level 2 Award in Babysitting is a short, Ofqual-regulated qualification for anyone aged 14 or over who looks after other people's children in their home – whether you babysit for neighbours and family friends, care for younger relatives, or want a recognised babysitting qualification to reassure the parents you work for. It covers your responsibilities to the children in your care and to their parents, and how to keep children safe while you are in charge.

You will learn how to assess risks in a family home and prevent accidents and fires, how to choose age-appropriate toys and activities for children from birth to five, how to settle a young child for sleep, and how to run safe, creative craft activities. The course is knowledge-based, so there is no placement and you study everything online. It pairs well with our Level 2 Award in Preparation for the Responsibilities of Parenting if you want a fuller picture of caring for babies and young children.

Course Structure

Unit 01: Accident Prevention and Fire Safety When Babysitting

Unit 02: Caring for Young Children in a Babysitting Environment

Unit 03: Craft Activities with Young Children (optional unit)

Assessment

There are no exams. You complete a short portfolio of assignments, which is internally assessed by your tutor and externally quality assured by NCFE. Tasks may include written answers, a risk assessment of a home environment and activity ideas for young children. The qualification is graded Achieved or Not Yet Achieved. Assignments are marked within 3–5 working days, or 1–3 working days on Priority Track.

Duration

The qualification has 43 guided learning hours (GLH) and a total qualification time (TQT) of 60 hours. Study is self-paced, and most learners complete it in 4–8 weeks. Your enrolment includes 12 months' access to the learning platform and tutor support, so there is plenty of time to fit study around school, college or work; after that, access can be extended for a re-enrolment fee.
